COURSE INFORMATION

Communication in the workplace. Consider the possibility that you can speak up at any time during meetings and that everyone in the room understands your messages and is impressed by your confidence and authority. Wouldn't it be fantastic to know you can speak up at any time and express yourself clearly and easily? Workplace Communication is something you can excel at. This class's emphasis on Workplace Communication is not primarily theoretical or scholarly. It is a physical skill that demands practise. That is why you will be asked to participate in a variety of tasks in which you will record yourself speaking on camera and then view yourself.
